The NCC Public Comment Draft is now open for your feedback – have your say on the next edition of the NCC

Content

The National Construction Code (NCC) Public Comment Draft is now open for public consultation.

The Australian Building Codes Board (ABCB) is seeking feedback on the proposed changes to the next edition of the NCC. These changes are shown in the NCC Public Comment Draft. The ABCB team has provided detailed information on each of the major changes, available on their website.

Submissions provided by the public will help inform the final version of the NCC for regulatory consideration. Feedback on the NCC Public Comment Draft must be submitted by 11:59 pm AEST 1 July 2024.

The ABCB will be hosting a series of Roadshow events in May and June 2024, to share information and answer questions about the proposed changes to the next edition of the NCC. Visit the ABCB website more information on the Roadshow events.

Learn more about the proposed changes and submit your feedback now via the ABCB's Consultation Hub.
